Swedes Call Russian Charges Plane Fired On Red Jets Lies

STOCKHOLM Sweden — Angry Swedes bitterly denounced as lies today Russian charges that a Swedish plane shot down Monday by Soviet jet fighters had flown over Russian territory and opened fire on the Reds first.

The Soviet claims were contained in a note handed the Swedish ambassador in Moscow by Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

The note, as broadcast by Radio Moscow, said that the Swedish plane flew over the Russian-held island of Dagoe near the Estonian coast, opened fire on Soviet fighters when they ordered it to land, and flew out over the Baltic Sea after the Russian planes returned the fire.

Had Different Story

The Swedish Air Force had told a vastly different story—that the plane, a Catalina flying boat searching for a Swedish transport plane missing over the Baltic since last Friday and also feared a victim of Soviet jets, was unarmed and was shot down 18 miles outside Russian territorial waters.

Two of the downed plane's seven crewmen were wounded in the attack but all were rescued by a German freighter.

Denied Every Point

Though official comment was not forthcoming until the text of the Soviet note was received from Moscow, one government authority denied every major point of the Russian contention.

The plane, he said, "was a Catalina flying boat and absolutely unarmed. Thus, it could not have opened fire against a nobody."

There was not the slightest shade of doubt that the Catalina was shot down over international waters. The position has been definitely established by thorough investigation.

Stockholm's morning newspapers were unanimous in their denunciation of the Soviet note.

"Russia's government is lying," the liberal Dagens Nyheter declared.

"Won't Convince Anyone"

The conservative Svenska Dagbladet said the Russian charges

Seeks Abolition Of Wage Board

House Labor Group Votes Against WSB

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new move to kill all wage and price controls shaped up today around recommendations of the House Labor Committee for abolition of the Wage Stabilization Board.

By a top-heavy vote, reported to be 16 to 5, the committee last night went on record in a seven-word recommendation to the House:

"The Wage Stabilization Board should be abolished."

The committee's action came as the House cleared the way for general debate today on the Defense Production Act. Among other things, this would extend wage-price controls for another year, starting June 30.

The committee's verdict gave powerful ammunition to leaders of the fight to end wage-price controls when the bill comes to a vote later this week.

An amendment to abolish the WSB probably will be offered by Rep. Kearns (R-Pa.). Chairman Barden (D-NC) said if Kearns did not offer it, he would.

The committee itself almost went all the way and recommended elimination of wage controls along with the WSB, which gives government policy on pay raises.

After first voting to kill off wage controls, it reversed itself on second thought and left the matter to the House.

Barden told newsmen committee members concluded the subject of wage controls "was a little bit out of our field, with price controls still in effect."

The WSB has been under fire from Congress since its controversial recommendations in the steel dispute.

COUNCIL ASKS REPORT ON WATER

Rogers Boy Becomes 3rd Drowning Victim

House Reported Ready To Ask Taft-Hartley Use

Dems, GOP Both Said Favoring Move To Re-Open Struck Mills

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House appeared ready today to go along with the Senate in asking President Truman to use the Taft-Hartley Act to re-open the strike-closed steel mills.

Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) told newsmen he had been assured by many Democrats and Republicans of support for such a move. The law empowers the President to ask a court injunction calling off a strike for 90 days.

Smith planned to tack the request onto a bill to continue wage, price, rent and production control, which expire June 30. Debate on the measure opens today with a vote scheduled tomorrow.

As the steel shutdown moved into its 17th day—with no signs of settlement—"considerable progress" was reported in getting some mills back into operation to meet critical defense needs.

John R. Steelman, assistant to the President, said it may be possible to announce today the names of mills to be re-opened.

Steelman, who is acting defense mobilizer, announced a union-management-government conference had agreed on a procedure for moving some finished steel out of picketing warehouses and plants to weapons makers. The conference continues today.

The CIO United Steelworkers agreed, when the strike began June 2, that it would co-operate in turning out sufficient steel to meet the need of the Korean battlefield. The government never has announced how much of the critical metal it needs for this purpose.

Truman so far has declined to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act, partly on the ground that the union at its request postponed its strike well over 80 days. He has asked Congress to give him the power to seize the mills, a power the Supreme Court ruled June 2 he doesn't have himself.

Condition Of Blast Victim Remains Poor

ALLIANCE—William Wowra, 19, of Clinton (Summit County), a Mount Union College student, remained in poor condition today at City Hospital with a compound fracture of the skull after being hit on the head with a piece of shale Monday evening in Knox Township, near Alliance.

Deputy Sheriff Al Hartman said the youth was hit on the head when a construction crew digging up a new pipeline set off some dynamite charges about 200 yards away.

Hartman said the injured Wowra and 20 others were swimming in an abandoned strip mine when the blast occurred. All raced to safety, but Wowra stuck his head out of a car window to yell for a companion when he was hit with the flying shale.

Several others were hit but none serious, the deputy sheriff said. Some of the swimmers were crew members of the H. L. Gentry Construction Co. of Jackson, Mich., the company digging for the pipeline.

Hartman reported the swimmers had obtained permission to use the swimming hole.

House Reported Ready To Ask Taft-Hartley Use

Seth Morris, 8, Dies In Bull Creek

Columbiana County recorded its third drowning of the year and the third in as many days Tuesday when Seth Edward Morris, eight, was drowned at about 3 p. m. in Bull Creek, just north of Rogers.

The Rogers boy, better known as "Sonny," went swimming with a group of young children early in the afternoon. The children left him alone and the tragedy was discovered when one of a group of older children, who arrived later, stepped on the body, submerged in four and a half feet of water.

A Columbiana doctor was rushed to the scene and tried unsuccessfully to revive the victim. The boy was then taken to Salem City Hospital where doctors failed in a two-hour effort to save him.

The first of the three tragedies occurred Sunday when George Vincent, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vincent of RD 1, East Canton, drowned in Woodland Lake near Homeworth.

Ronald Campbell, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Campbell of near East Liverpool, lost his life Monday in Beaver Creek, near Fredericktown.

Born July 18, 1944 in Lisbon, the Morris boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Morris of Rogers. He was a third grade pupil in Rogers School and attended the Christian Church and its Sunday school there.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Phillip Grant; three sisters, Ruth Ann, Kathleen and Marcella Lynn, all at home; grandmother, Mrs. Ida Morris of Rogers, and grandfather, William Brown of RD 1, Lisbon. He was the oldest child.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday at the Rogers Christian Church, with Rev. William Savors, church pastor, officiating. Burial will be in East Carmel Cemetery, near Rogers.

The body was removed to the Warrick funeral home in Columbiana and will be taken Thursday to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Ida Morris, where friends may call Thursday afternoon and evening.

Taft Pledges 15% Cut In Federal Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Taft of Ohio said today "I am willing to pledge a straight 15 per cent cut in taxes" if he becomes president.

The Ohio senator, a top contender for the Republican Nomination, said he considers taxes at present levels to be inflationary.

Taft told a conference of business paper editors that he believes he could bring government spending down to around 70 billion dollars in the first year. It is now running about 85 billion.

In the second year, he said, the budget "ought to be cut to 60 billion"—40 billion for the armed forces and aid to Europe and 20 billion for domestic purposes.

"I think that can be done," Taft said. "If so, we can have a 15 per cent cut in taxes."

Taft hit again at "land generals" he said are dominating Pentagon thinking, and repeated his demand for a supreme air power to stop Russian aggression.

As for keeping American troops on the continents of Europe and Asia, the senator told the editors: "I don't think we should do it as any permanent policy."

Taft also said he doubted the advisability of any permanent law designed to meet such things as the present steel strike.

Steel Price Boost Reported Assured

WASHINGTON (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam said today the steel industry has been assured of "friendly and sympathetic" consideration of a steel price boost if a strike settlement is achieved.

Putnam told a news conference he and John R. Steelman, acting defense mobilizer discussed a $4.50 a ton increase during the negotiations which broke down 16 days ago.

But Putnam said the figure was mentioned "among other things, and nothing was settled."

Ace-Again Gabreski Is Back

With a cigar jauntily in his mouth, U. S. Air Force Col. Francis Gabreski meets reporters on landing at Hamilton Air Force Base, Cal., from Korea. He has a score of 6½ MIGs shot down for his 100 combat missions, which makes him a Korea ace, and is back in the U. S. on rotation. In World War II he was an ace, too. He shot down 31 German planes and is credited with destroying 2½ on the ground in 166 combat missions. Gabreski is from Oil City, Pa.

Garbage Disposal Discussed In Council; No Action Taken

Two officials of the State Department of Health, members of the City Board of Health, councilmen and other interested persons held a two-hour long discussion Tuesday night relative to municipal collection and disposal of garbage but no concrete action was taken on the matter.

Stedman M. Overman of the State Department of Health and J. E. Warfield, district sanitarian of the department, showed motion pictures concerning garbage disposal and sanitation and outlined details concerning a municipal garbage collection plan.

A city of Salem's size could probably institute a garbage collection service with an initial outlay of approximately $30,000, Mr. Overman said.

This amount would be sufficient to purchase the two or three trucks needed, the land for burial of the garbage and a bulldozer to pack and cover the garbage pits, he said.

Burial Most Sanitary

Burial of garbage is the most sanitary form of disposal, he said, and one acre of ground for that purpose would probably be sufficient to absorb the accumulated refuse of a population of 10,000 for one year.

Mr. Overman also stressed that a municipal garbage collection plan is the most efficient type of service and the private collection system, such as Salem possesses, the least desirable.

He stated that cities have been able to operate collection systems at a cost of $1 per month per household or business establishment.

Collectors Join Discussion

Two local refuse collectors, Charles Eichler and Amos Dunlap, joined in the discussion. Mr. Eichler said that the service in the city would be made more efficient if there were greater cooperation between residents and collectors. Too often, he said, residents fail to call for removal of their refuse until their garbage cans are overflowing.

Then, he said, they become rate that the collector cannot make the collection that very day.

Councilmen and City Health Commissioner Dr. R. T. Holzbach were in accord that the service provided by private collectors at present was satisfactory, considered.

U. N. Walkout Is Termed Unjustified

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Smartering under an Allied-imposed three-day recess, the Reds sent their liaison officers of Panmunjom today with a complaint that the United Nations walkout was unjustified.

Allied liaison officers countered by telling the Reds that U. N. planes still had found no markings on four Communist prisoner of war camps despite Communist assertions that the camps were properly marked.

The exchange took place at a liaison meeting called by the United Nations Command.

A letter from the Reds said: "These unilateral and unjustifiable actions on the part of your side (yesterday's walkout) are evidently designed for the delay of the armistice negotiations and the responsibility rests entirely on your side."

However, the Reds did not request that the recess be cut short as they did last week when the Allies walked out in a similar move. It was done to cut short the Red flow of propaganda and confine the meetings to negotiations on prisoner exchange—the last item barring a truce.

The Allied note said that in spite of assertions of Red delegates that all their prisoner camps were marked properly Allied reconnaissance had failed to find any markings around locations given for Camps 2, 6, 9 and 10.

"Either these prisoner camps do not exist at the locations specified by you on Jan. 23, or you have been misinformed," the Allied note said.

Liquor Permit Case Won By Local Church

The Ohio Supreme Court yesterday refused to hear an appeal of a Salem tavern owner whose request for renewal of a liquor permit was denied because the bar was across the street from a church.

Frank V. Tancer, operator of Frank's Tavern on W. State, was granted a permit in 1949, despite the fact that the Assembly of God Tabernacle was situated directly across the street.

Later the church objected and when the permit came up for renewal, it was denied by the state liquor director.

Tancer operates the tavern formerly known as the Salem House.

Councilman Abe Says Public In Dark On Facts

Reason For Shortage Is Sought From Water Superintendent

Salem City Council Tuesday night passed a motion by Councilman Carl Abe that the Water Commission be requested to make a report to Council regarding the city's acquisition of water for the new East Cold Run reservoir.

Mr. Abe stated that councilmen were "still in the dark" as to whether the city would take water directly from Guilford Lake, the lake's spillway or from streams located in the area.

In view of the tremendous amount of money spent in the reservoir's construction, he said, Council and the city's people were entitled to know the details concerning this phase of the reservoir.

Water Committee Chairman Fred Koenreich also wanted to know why the city found itself experiencing a water shortage at this time. He said that Water Superintendent B. V. BeVier owed Council an explanation regarding the present emergency.

Mr. BeVier was not present during that portion of the meeting.

Plan Sewage Discussion

Council heard a report from Sewer Committee Chairman Michael Schuller regarding the engineering survey of the city's sewage system which is being conducted by City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff.

Mr. Schuller said his committee met recently with the engineer and that he had presented them with a comprehensive picture of the city's present sewage condition and its future requirements. He said that the engineer requested a meeting with Council as a committee-of-the-whole for next Tuesday evening to thoroughly discuss the subject.

Council President Ned Massa agreed to a meeting with the engineer on that date.

Taxi Cabs Studied

Councilmen engaged in a brief discussion at the session on the license fees and conditions under which taxi cabs are operating in the city.

Councilman H. C. Kniseley felt that the $5 per year city license fee imposed each year on taxi cab operators was not sufficient. He stated that the city ordinance covering the taxi licenses was very outmoded and that the fee should be raised to at least $10 per year.

He said that, considering the way cabs are tearing up the city's streets, the operators should pay more.

Also discussed by Councilmen was the condition of some of the cabs now in operation. The solons seemed in accord that more stringent regulation of the taxi companies should be adopted by the city.

BeVier Asks Halt To Water Wastage

City Water Superintendent B. V. BeVier again urged residents today to cooperate with the city and observe the restrictions imposed last week at the start of the water shortage here.

The water situation, he said, is still very critical, despite the slight improvement noted yesterday. He stated that some residents had been seen sprinkling lawns and gardens and asked that such wastage be stopped immediately.

Mr. BeVier reported that the Whinnery field well and the well at the High School are both back in operation and that all of the city's wells are being pumped to their full capacity to meet the consumers' demand.

VEHICLES SLIGHTLY DAMAGED

Only slight damages occurred to each vehicle at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday when a truck operated by Frank Lagano, 49, of Warren backed into a car stopped on Route 634, at the intersection of Routes 534 and 62, by E. E. Tunison, 49, of Wooster. State Highway Patrolmen reported.

The biggest in town!

Here's a nickel that buys plenty of service . . . comfort and entertainment. It's a nickel spent for electric service! For example, here's what 5c worth of electric service can do for your family:

- Make toast for you and your family for all three meals . . . (A penny's worth does that!)
- Switch clean three full tubs of laundry . . . (Only a penny for that power, too!)
- Vacuum six large rugs . . . (Lots of work for a cent's worth of electricity!)

• Furnish a cooling breeze for four full hours . . .

• AND

• Bring you and your family an evening's entertainment!

Where else could the average family get so much value for one small nickel? In fact, your electric service is just about the biggest bargain in your family budget. Don't you agree?

Huk Chief Gets Life In Prison

American, Filipino Wife Are Sentenced

MANILA (AP)—William J. Pomeroy, American propaganda chief for the Communist Huk, and his Filipino wife Celia today were sentenced to life imprisonment for armed rebellion in the Philippines.

Each pleaded guilty to the indictment, which also charged them with murder, kidnaping, arson and robbery as members of the Huk organization.

Judge Felicisimo Ocampo said he refrained from imposing the death sentence because the pair showed "indications of repentance."

Pomeroy, 36, Rochester, N. Y., a U. S. airman in World War II, made no comment. But his wife told newsmen:

"Bill and I are prepared to meet whatever the future has in store for us."

"We knew it was coming and we were prepared for it. You can justify, you can condemn but we have finally found our way."

Court attendants whisked the couple away shortly after the sentencing. The courtroom was crowded with armed guards and military agents to prevent any Huk rescue attempt.

Pomeroy had been in the hills with the Huk more than two years. Philippine troops captured him March 11, 40 miles northeast of Manila. His wife was captured a few days later.

There was a $15,000 price on his head. He was described by intelligence officers as a leading Huk brain trust and director of propaganda.

He was an enlisted man in the U. S. Fifth Air Force in 1944 in the Philippines. He made his first contact with the Huk in World War II.

After his arrest he described himself as a writer and lecturer in Communist "Stalin Universities" hidden in the Luzon mountains.

The land located in Washington Township near Salineville contains about 70 acres, with about $30,000 due in back taxes and interest.

The next step will be to have the land forfeited to the state and sold at a public sale.

PORTRAIT OF A 'DREAM' CANDIDATE—As political convention time nears, campaign managers of both parties look for the candidate whose background and appearance will best capture the minds and imagination of the electorate. "Photo" shows what the "ideal" candidate might look like. It was made by super-imposing photos of Eisenhower, Taft, Kefauver and Russell. History shows that successful candidates all had common virtues shown in sketches around the photo. These, by and large, for better or for worse, are the stuff of which winning candidates are made.

Birth in farmhouse is something to brag about. He should come from a pivotal state.

Previous military duty will help. Most presidents had some.

Experience as governor is big recommendation. Control of state machine will help, too.

Bloodmobile Unit To Visit In Lisbon

LISBON—Final plans have been completed for the first annual visit of a Red Cross bloodmobile here Thursday, Mrs. Wayne Calhoun of Lisbon, Columbiana County blood-bank chairman, announced.

The bloodmobile unit from Pittsburgh will be set up in the American Legion Home on W. Lincoln Way and begin receiving donors at 11 a. m. Work will continue until 5 p. m.

Mrs. Calhoun said cards have been received from 184 of the 200 already pledged. The quota is 125 pints but as many of the 184 as possible will be taken.

The unit will be staffed with eight nurses, one doctor and two custodians. All will be from Pittsburgh. Tom Lindsay, assistant administrator of the Pittsburgh Blood Center, and Miss Carolyn Moran of Akron, general field worker for the Red Cross, will also assist. About 35 volunteer workers from Lisbon will aid the staff.

Eight donors every 15 minutes can be handled by the bloodmobile workers.

Robert Henry, county Red Cross chairman, said each donor will receive two tickets to a Pittsburgh Pirate ball game later this month.

The bloodmobile will make another visit to the village in August.

St. Lawrence Seaway Bill Dies In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, spurning a last-minute plea by President Truman, today killed a bill to authorize the United States to join with Canada in constructing the 818 million dollar St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

It adopted 43 to 40, a motion by Sen. O'Connor (D-Md.) to return the bill to its Foreign Relations Committee for further study.

The Senate thus repeated action it took in 1947, the last time a similar bill was up for Senate consideration.

The measure, opponents and proponents agree, now has no chance of being brought up again at this session of Congress, nearing adjournment or recess until after the national political conventions.

Salineville Man Gets $150 In Civil Suit

LISBON—A Common Pleas Court jury took about an hour to award a Salineville man $150 for a building and lumber taken from his property by a father and son in civil action Tuesday before Judge Joel H. Sharp.

The jury, voting 11-1, said John Whitaker should collect the amount from B. H. Curry Sr. and B. H. Curry Jr. for the 12 by 14-foot building and 394 feet of lumber taken in 1948. All parties are from RD 1, Salineville.

Whitaker was seeking $332.

Harriman Beats Kefauver In Washington D. C. Dem Primary

(By The Associated Press) Averell Harriman today had parlayed all-out support of President Truman and civil right to a runaway victory over Sen. Estes Kefauver in the District of Columbia's Democratic presidential preference race.

It was Harriman's debut at the ballot box. Now mutual security administrator, he has served in many appointive government posts but never before sought election.

He won two prizes: the District's six votes at the July 21 Democratic presidential-nominating convention and the prestige of beating the vote-getting senator from Tennessee.

Kefauver has won all but one of 15 previous presidential primaries—that one being Florida's on May 6, copped by Georgia Sen. Richard Russell.

Harriman claimed President Truman's approval—but not formal endorsement—of his campaign. The President reportedly is cool toward Kefauver's candidacy, although he has said all the would-be Democratic nominees are good men and qualified for the presidency.

Returns from all but 10 of the District's precincts gave Harriman 10,107 to Kefauver's 2,807. Theirs were the only names on the ballot. Write-ins included 95 for Russell, 150 for Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson and 50 for President Truman.

Kefauver still leads the pre-convention race for delegate strength, as tabulated nationwide by The Associated Press. With 616 needed for nomination, Kefauver has 246 to Russell's 114 and Harriman's new total of 91½.

The GOP convention keynoter, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was cleared for his role by the Pentagon Tuesday. The Army decided

Potato Shortage Ends, Prices Drop

By The Associated Press The nation's big potato shortage is over. There are plenty of spuds in markets from coast to coast.

An Associated Press survey shows that at many places prices have dropped as much as one-third from the highs reached about two weeks ago after potato price ceilings were suspended.

Wholesale prices already are back at or near the old ceilings in New York, Chicago and several other cities.

There is some difference of opinion on prospects for future price cutting. While some dealers say prices now are at "a seasonally normal level" and generally stabilized, there are other reports that more reductions may be expected before the market levels off.

That's The Catch

If the healthy discussion of long-term military policy started by Sen. Taft and now being taken up by Gen. Eisenhower continues, the taxpaying public will be the beneficiary.

It has not been acknowledged in the slapdash rush to re-arm the United States that the problem was more qualitative than quantitative. The United States now has, according to President Truman, nearly 15,000 airplanes in active use and an Air Force of 90 wings; that is the quantitative story.

The qualitative story is that the United States still lacks modern equipment for even the 48-wing Air Force of pro-Korea planning. This is not peculiarly the problem of the United States. It is the catch in all programs for arming nations. It is Russia's problem, too.

In order to bring mass armament to a purposeful climax, designs must be standardized. At that instant, the armament begins to be obsolete. France, in 1940, was adequately armed to fight World War I. But in the meantime, Germany had armed itself to fight World War II. The B-17's which were the work-horses of the aerial war in Europe, the B-29's which did the same job against Japan and all other planes used in World War II were obsolete before the war was over. Thousands of them were junked.

The new problem is how to maintain security without going to war—by balancing power instead of rebalancing it. Its solution is not to amass great quantities of obsolete armament at huge public expense. Out of the discussion which has been opened by Sen. Taft should emerge a workable solution based on qualitative strength. He and Gen. Eisenhower do not claim to have found it yet, but both of them are looking for it.

Down To Business

The central fact of Gen. Eisenhower's bid for the Republican presidential nomination now will become clearer every time he speaks.

His countrymen will learn that he and Sen. Taft are both devoted to the same principles. There is no shade of difference so far, nor is there likely to be any.

Even the attempt to make it appear that the two men differ on foreign policy will be futile as the general describes his views. There is no substantial difference, either.

Sen. Taft has done such a thorough, conscientious job of guiding party policy that there simply is no room for a substantial difference of opinion between him and anyone else seeking the Republican presidential nomination.

Anyone who tried to create a difference at this point in history would be failing to represent the voters who are the potential supporters of the Republican candidate.

That is why there are hard feelings between those who think Taft should have the nomination and those who have done the spadework for Eisenhower's candidacy. The latter have tried to make it appear that differences existed, in order to discredit the man who has done the most to keep alive a loyal opposition.

The ultimate purpose of the opposition was to give the American people an alternative when the party in power finally discredited itself. That has happened.

Sen. Taft has earned the right to the Republican presidential nomination by virtue of past leadership—leadership so strong that Gen. Eisenhower has no choice but to accept its terms in his own bid for the nomination.

Platform Puzzle

There is one theory about the platforms of political parties which may ease the minds of voters, soon to be confronted with these documents by the Republican and Democratic conventions.

The theory holds that the platforms, though they have become relatively meaningless as far as binding public officials to their pledges is concerned, are clear reflections of the issues between the parties and between factions inside the parties. Thus, they reveal the nature of political questions and the politicians discussing them and become in that way a guide to the temper of the times.

Or it might be said that platforms have more value to historians than they have to voters; they reveal what has been happening more nearly than they reveal what is going to happen. In the historic view, as a famous wisecrack sums it up, political platforms are like train platforms—to get in on, not to stand on.

Both parties now are deeply involved in preparing of platforms for 1952. The results will be little noted nor long remembered. But to the few who will read them when they are issued and the fewer who will study them in the years to come, they will tell a fascinating story—a story which would be a best-seller every four years if it included a stenographic report of the arguments through which the platform-makers reached their compromises.

This is the season when you drag the heavy hose out of the garage, get all set to sprinkle—and it rains.

Outlook In Europe

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Insecure Conditions There Hinge On U. S.

ENROUTE FROM EUROPE

After several weeks in Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, the main impression which this correspondent carries back home is that Europe is insecure. It is insecure politically, economically and spiritually. It is suffering from the shell-shock of war and despite outward appearances of normalcy, Europe is a long way from stability or safety.

A third world war along the lines of World War I or World War II is improbable for the simple reason that, without the firing of a shot or the march of a single army corps, Europe is ripe for Soviet plunging.

There exists in every country a Soviet apparatus which has infiltrated the opposition parties, the press, the radio and the educational institutions and which guides the internal battle constantly in the direction of political and economic chaos. Democracy is slowly coming to realize the danger but still foolishly tolerates the very abuses of liberty that can lead to its own destruction.

SOVIET RUSSIA'S strategy is to influence and bring into control of the various governments the parties that will play the Communist game—not as a matter of "disloyalty" but as a matter of ideology. For the end result is the same—internal weakness means less armament and less resistance to political subjugation by Soviet Russia.

Two things are absolutely vital for America to do—to build up the armament strength of the European democracies and to build up their respective economic situations.

More armament is needed not so much to meet a Soviet threat of military operation, for that seems unlikely, but primarily to bolster the morale of the democratic peoples to make them feel secure.

Economic aid from America, but better handled and better allocated, is essential to prevent the opposition politicians from exploiting the weaknesses that mean votes for those who would tear down democracy under the guise of socialistic reform.

Marshall Plan aid has been a lifesaver. Hindsight tells us many mistakes were made—this seems to be admitted even by American officials now—and much money was not spent wisely. But that doesn't mean economic aid should be discontinued. It is more than ever necessary. A brief picture of each country follows:

1. GREAT BRITAIN is on the edge of bankruptcy. She cannot find a market for her exports. She is lacking in raw materials. She is suffering from the effects of a disintegrating empire trade and from internal troubles which the proposals and schemes of nationalization and paternalism are not solving. A "left wing" government with extreme ideas about reducing armament and doing what the Soviets want done is a distinct possibility in Britain unless the Churchill government gets help and also develops a little more political agility than it has shown.

2. France is in the hands of a loose coalition of parties which is not as strong as Premier Pinay's reputation for strength has lately led the outside world to believe. Pinay is not a big man and his successes in winning a parliamentary majority are due to the readiness of opposition parties to let him, for the time being, bear the burden of some economic legislation of an unpalatable nature on wages and prices that none of them would like to sponsor.

The strong man in France is former Premier Plevin, whose statesmanship, if given an opportunity, will some day save France. But the situation is touch and go at the moment with the Communists in position to do harm to the government. The recent raids on Communist leaders would seem to indicate an awareness of the Communist danger but it is a belated recognition of what has been going on all along.

3. GERMANY is the weakest of all, though it has the reputation of having "recovered." The Germans are industrious and have done wonders in rebuilding some of their plants. But West Germany cannot support her big debt or survive as an economic unit without East Germany, where 20,000,000 Germans are under Soviet rule.

The socialist opposition in Germany hates the Communists but plays into their hands by keeping up a nationalistic attack on the Adenauer government. The crisis here is a year or so away but when the elections happen next year the whole world will be nervous because it does look as if the Socialists may come into power.

4. Italy is in a weaker position than is generally known. Her unemployment is giving opposition parties a big talking point. Italy wants a market for her goods and a reduction of tariff barriers and she wants a stopgap some orders for military equipment. In Italy, however, not only are the Communists active but the Fascists are rising again, aided and abetted by the monarchists. Opposition to the de Gasperi government is stimulated by a popular feeling that under Mussolini there was employment and "good times."

Europe is ripe for dictatorships again. Democracy is in serious trouble everywhere. The same conditions which gave Hitler and Mussolini their opportunities to exploit economic weaknesses are present again though not yet of the same intensity as before.

RUSSIA HAS from her standpoint been wise in declining to march across Europe in the last few years. It is so much easier for her to pursue her present strategy of boring from within the democracies.

The biggest single danger for the European democracies today is the recurrence of an economic depression in the United States such as began in the early 'thirties, as it might cut off economic aid.

The next biggest danger is the election of an American president who turns his back on Europe on the theory that he can serve the United States by drastic reduction of taxes and less, appropriations at the expense of a disintegrating Europe. That's the time when Soviet Russia will take over Europe—for there are Frenchmen, Italians, Germans and some Britons who, like the ill-fated Democrats of Czechoslovakia, believe in a deal with Moscow.

It seems improbable that any of the men mentioned for the presidency of the United States on either ticket would be so shortsighted. It is more likely instead that whoever gets into office will, on learning all the facts, continue to help Europe both militarily and economically. But Europeans are apprehensive just the same that their fate is somehow bound up in the 1952 American elections.

Two Years In Retrospect

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Soon the Korean war will be two years old. Since the truce talks began about two weeks after the first anniversary, it is fair to say the second year has largely added up to stalemate.

Yet there is something terribly cruel in such a view of this strangest of all wars. It seems to imply that nothing is happening, that no blood is being shed. Still we all know this is not so, that casualty lists continue to be issued, that the total of men killed or wounded rises weekly by blocks of a hundred or more.

If you stop and think a moments, you realize that this war is no stalemate to the families of men whose names appear on those lists. It is bitter combat, with the full horror that surrounds any other war we have ever fought.

No manpower controls, no excess profits tax, no "conscription of capital" can hope to equalize home-front sacrifices with battlefield suffering.

But unhappily, we have to face the fact that the inevitable inequality of sacrifice is vastly greater in this present conflict than in previous years. This is not all-out combat in which every man has his appointed station and is expected to serve.

This is all-out war for a few—and booming peacetime, marred only by the nervous tensions of the Cold War, for the many. This death and horror for some, and no pain at all for most others.

Maybe we shall have to acknowledge that it is too much to expect citizens enjoying prosperous conditions at home to worry unduly over a war that appears quite remote, wholly confusing, and without effect directly upon them.

No one would pretend, either, that it is easy to endure the strains of the Cold War. Living on what Gen. Eisenhower calls a "high plateau of tension" is a new experience for most Americans.

Old Hand on the Job

Reaction of The Bureaucracy

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The remarkable fact about any people is how rapidly they grow accustomed to that which they believe to be wrong. For instance, as the bureaucracy began to grow in Washington, there was an outcry against its size, the duplication of jobs, the "go-slow" attitude of public workers. Senator Byrd fought the issue and, of course, lost because the "pay-roll vote," as it is now called, developed into a vested interest. The public got used to the myriad host of officials and even to the blustering ways they displayed.

The subject is rarely discussed these days. The bureaucracy has become an entrenched power in Washington with rights, privileges and perquisites. Today, the count of federal employees comes to 2,559,000 and costs the taxpayers $9,500,000,000 a year.

It is generally but incorrectly assumed that the next president possibly a Republican, will quickly lop off large segments of this pay roll. The fact is that about 2,244,000 of these federal employees have civil service protection. Practically, the only to fire them is for Congress to abolish their jobs or to cut off appropriations.

THIS WILL BE A SLOW PROCESS.

A new president could instruct department heads not to fill vacancies, in some instances, but it is almost certain that the politicians and department heads will gang up to keep the payroll as full as possible. The next president will have a tough time of it.

He could, of course, implement the proposal of the Hoover Commission, reorganizing the administration on a basis of efficiency. Mr. Truman had ample opportunity to do so.

By Galbraith

tunity to do that, but, on the whole, his interest in efficiency lagged when he faced firing a lot of people, who, he hoped, would vote for the party that keeps them in jobs. In 1948, the pay-roll vote served Mr. Truman well; he will not disdain it in 1952.

Should the Republicans be elected, the top men will be changed. Such zooming departments as State and Agriculture may find that the new heads want to get rid of personnel trained in the New Deal and the Fair Deal. State, in particular, would get a speedy overhauling, for while a number of homosexuals, communists and fellow-travelers have been fired or allowed to resign, many in the department would find themselves very unhappy under a tough Secretary of State. They might prefer some other berth, maybe in the United Nations, which is full of experts.

GOVERNMENT JOBS seem very attractive to some men and women; yet the pay is low and the opportunities are limited. For instance, only about 300 out of 2,559,000 employees (not including the military) receive between $14,800 and $25,000 a year. This would be a low proportion in private industry, in the law, or in journalism. Perhaps that is why so many government officials, in this highest bracket, seek for opportunities outside the government. They regard their current job as a stepping stone and hope to attract attention to themselves so that they may find better paying berths in private industry.

Taking all brackets, government pay is better, on the whole, than teaching, even in universities, in spite of the fact that about 68 per cent of civilian government employees earn under $4,000 a year. For white collar workers, this is not too attractive, considering the dog that bureaucrats seem to feel that they have to put on.

Politicians argue back and forth as to whether the payroll vote is a determining factor in elections. The evidence on the subject is inconclusive. The Dunn Survey of Greenwich, Connecticut, has been making prognostications based on the payroll vote during the past several elections and it has come out rather better than the commercial polls; on the other hand, areas adjacent to Washington, in which many office-holders and their families live, have gone Republican.

It is like Washington, D. C., Republicans who might have been expected to favor Eisenhower because so many of them work in the Pentagon and State Department and such places; yet, they voted for Taft. Maybe, the more entrenched the bureaucracy becomes, the more independent its voting habits, because when the fear of being fired disappears, normal habits reassert themselves.

It will be interesting to see what happens this year when the payroll vote can declare itself independent on the assumption that a Democrat may not get it, anyhow.

Study In Jealousy

By TRUMAN TWILL

The semi-monthly edition of U. S. S. R. Information Bulletin which has just come out contains two pictures we have been showing around as curiosities.

One looks exactly like a picture of two American vacationers who have just landed a prize fish. The other, a photograph of the new Moscow, could have been taken in any block of apartments in any U. S. city. The resemblance is startling, because it gets down to such fine points as buses, trucks, passenger automobiles and wearing apparel exactly like those to be seen anywhere in the United States.

As a commentary on the psychology behind Russian bitterness against Americans, pictures like these tell more than words. For a generation, this striving to duplicate American patterns has been the dominant influence in Russian thought.

Jealousy probably is having more to do with international relations in these troubled times than ideologies, a hunch turned over herewith to the experts in psychological warfare for what it may be worth.

But three other pictures in the current edition of the Information Bulletin also speak louder than the accompanying words. They show Russian workers enjoying vacations in government-operated resorts—one for farmers, one for miners, one for trade-union members.

Here speaks the difference, because vacationers in the United States would balk at segregation, even if the government were paying their way. The American idea of a vacation is to get away from the job and shop-talk. For millions of American workers, an ideal vacation is to lose their bread-earning identity for a few days in new surroundings.

It is a time to express as much individuality as can be afforded, to put on different clothes and to taste the illusion of being foot-loose and fancy-free. Chances are that would be the Russian idea, too—but there speaks the difference in two philosophies of living. Under the domination of the state, Russian individualism must be minimized at all costs lest it get in the way of the people who assume the right to be the state and to dominate others in its name.

A century and a-half ago, the Russian czars were doing the dominating. Their idea was to make the Russian people more and more like the envied French, who subsequently were to become the Russian enemy. There may be something there for the psychological-warfare experts to look into—they probably have looked into it by this time.

Later, still under the czars, Russians were ordered to imitate and even to worship the envied Germans. That, too, led to bloodshed, because the Germans could not tolerate the danger of a successful copy of their own handiwork in the hands of people who envied them so much they sought to destroy them. Ideologies change from generation to generation, but human nature is constant. Jealousy never changes.

Uncle Ef Says

People around here are wondering more about taxes as more and more former revenue officials refuse to answer questions about their incomes. There's no space on an ordinary income tax blank where common taxpayers can write that they refuse to answer.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Ordeal Ahead

The realization that both national conventions will be on television, with six per cent of the people seeing them over 18,000,000 sets on coast-to-coast hookups, is a terrifying thought. This can kill television or kill national conventions, say we. It could even kill audiences. There are politicians who should be seen not heard; there are politicians who should be heard and not seen, but there are mighty few qualified to be both seen and heard.

Next month all America will be a convention stage and all the delegates merely principals on a colossal talent-scout program. The people's reaction may be extra strong. Heretofore a party convention has been something it heard about by press and radio. This year the delegates will be in almost everybody's living room with every speech, gesture, grin and grimace. Can the American home take it? We see in each convention a combination pier riot clambake, smoke-filled room, rodeo without horses and leak in the gas pipes. Never will so many homes have been so full of so much scuttletbutt, gum-beating, skulduggery, noisy routines, weird conduct and wild oratory. The cry as each convention ends may be a pathetic "Put my earplugs and dark glasses on again."

... I can still see and hear 'em!" Millions may wind up too sore to vote for either party. Old-fashioned oratory had better be out. Video makes it possible to recognize the bunk, baloney and applesauce too easily. It's pitiless in its exposure of the phonies and foul balls. It brings out all the ham and the cheesecake. The silver-tongued orator who would also be a good channel swimmer is up against the test of tests. And oratory won't count as it once did. Three things can be of greater importance in popular appeal to the voters in 1952:

- 1.—The hair line.
- 2.—Dimples
- 3.—Baggy or well-pressed pants.

Due to video, a man's chance for the presidency can depend on his facial expression. He can loose an election because of a mole, a wart or a bald spot. Similarly a smart candidate may win his hold on the voters through a cooking program, a good comedy routine, a folk song, a new dance step, or a jacket idea. From now on the "eyes" have it. A convention now becomes a people's entertainment, the big show, a gala public performance, coast to coast, with millions of Americans in ringside seats in the capacity of hard-boiled critics.

Each convention could be billed in the video program as "Break the Bunk," "Meet the Pressure," "Kukla, Ham and Folly," "What's My Lyin'?" or "This is Dough Business." It's a half pretty alarming. Before either one is half through, the country may echo with the demand, "Give us back Howdy Doody, those 1928 Westerns, the assorted panels, the ball games, the wrestlers, the commercials and even the wooden dummies!"

Take it easy boys! The founding fathers never intended that the political conventions be held in department store windows.

With Gen. MacArthur, a strong opponent of Ike Eisenhower, named keynote at the Republican convention, with Ike a hot candidate for the nomination, the fight may be so hot the delegates will need air cover.

Maybe the whole idea of getting MacArthur to be keynote was to make sure that all video fight fans tuned in on the convention telecasts.

Washington now makes it possible to buy a new home with only 5 per cent down, if the building costs $7,000 or less. Anybody who can find a house with room enough in it to hold a man with 5 per cent of $7,000 should get it as a reward.

VANISHING AMERICANISMS

"What makes the home so quiet tonight?" "We don't have much money but we get all we want to eat."

"Give him fifty cents; he just mowed the whole lawn."

Asked to deliver the commencement oration the old cynic told the class of '52 that beyond the Alps lie the Himalayas.

The June bride must expect to make many laughable mistakes, most of which may be covered with mayonnaise.

Progressive Mothers Install Officers In Impressive Rite

A lighted candle passed from the outgoing president, Mrs. Don Smith, to the incoming president, Mrs. Allan Chandler, was the installation symbol used at the annual ceremony conducted impressively Tuesday evening by members of the Progressive Mothers Club.

The delightful dinner affair took place in the Alliance Country Club with 22 club members entertaining 13 guests. The women were seated at a U-shaped table laid with white linen and highlighted by an arrangement of blue larkspur and pink roses in a low white bowl. Each place was marked with nose-gay-filled waxes depicting a woman's head.

"As this candle lights our circle so will our study and an association together give us light to see and solve our problems as mothers" were the words of the candle-lighting pledge participated in by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Chandler.

Mrs. Smith welcomed the company and Mrs. Richard Wilson gave the invocation. Mrs. Thomas Crothers, who was installed as vice president and program chairman, introduced Mrs. Gny Byers, honorary member.

Mrs. Byers entertained with a review of the amusing book, "Through Charlie's Door." The story deals with the advertising department of Marshall Fields in Chicago as told by Emily Kimbrough.

Other officers installed besides Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Crothers were Mrs. R. K. Kuhl, treasurer, and Mrs. George Boeckling, secretary. Mrs. Chandler named her committees including:

Program, Mrs. Crothers, Mrs. Kenneth Pinkerton, Mrs. Howard Trotter and Mrs. Clyde Miller; ways and means, Mrs. Kuhl, Mrs. Richard Wilson and Mrs. Dudley Ashead; calling, Mrs. Gus Edling and Mrs. Albert Kitzman; flower, Mrs. Arthur Smith, and sympathy, Mrs. Hugh Kells.

In appreciation for her year's work Mrs. Smith was presented a gift by her vice president, Mrs. Walter Gray, in behalf of the club. Mrs. Byers also received a gift from the club as presented by Mrs. Crothers. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Mary McQuiston of East Fairfield and Mrs. Maude Downs of Alliance.

A bouquet of white carnations and baby mums complemented the beautiful white lace gown of the bride with its stand-up collar, tightly fitting bodice and sleeves pointed at the wrists. Self-covered buttons marched down the back of the dress and the skirt was gathered at the waist and flowed full. The shoulder-length veil was held by a white pearl head band.

Mr. and Mrs. Regis Donnelly of Leetonia was best man and matron of honor respectively.

Mrs. Donnelly was attired in light green. Her nylon net gown was highlighted with a shoulder-length veil and pearl headband and she carried light green carnations.

An altar banked with ferns and summer flowers provided the setting for the marriage of Miss Doris Arlene Zurburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Zurburg of RD 2, Beloit, to Samuel Ray Stryfeler, son of Mrs. Rozella Stryfeler of New Garden, Sunday at 2 p.m. in Bethel Reformed Church, East Beech, Beloit. Rev. James V. Ingram officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautiful in her picturesque ballerina gown of white nylon over satin with chancilly lace bodice. The long sleeves were pointed at the wrists, and self-covered buttons accentuated the back.

Wears Pearl Necklace
Her fingertip veil of illusion, caught in a crown of orange blossoms, gave contrast to the bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid which she was carrying. Her pearl necklace was a gift of the groom.

Organist Mrs. LaVerne Hahlen played nuptial melodies, "Always," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

For her matron of honor the bride chose Mrs. Faye Fultz of Damascus, the groom's sister. Her bridesmaid was Miss Rosalene Herrod of Beloit.

Boxwood Tree Most Unusual And Rarest Growing In Salem

By PEARL WALKER

Ever think as you look on the beautiful trees which stretch their leafy arms across Salem's avenues that they are a part of this city's heritage?

To our forefathers who planted them to provide shade for Salem this generation owes a debt of gratitude. This can be paid off in care of these trees and planting of others for future generations. Some cities have a tree committee for their preservation. Why not Salem?

The wealth of Salem's tree species comprise those native to the state—maples, oaks, elms, ash, etc., besides a variety of ornamentals.

In this city the common tree boxwood is the rarest and most unusual. The three largest are set in as many places—Hope Cemetery, the home of Annie Blackburn, N. Ellsworth Ave., and the Donald Schnorrenborg home, E. Pershing St.

The largest one which is more than 50 years old and approximately 20 feet high is at the Blackburn home. Brought by members of the family from Middleton, east of Columbiana, it has been moved twice.

A four-trunk tree at the Schnorrenborg home, is believed to have been left by the old Bonsall nursery, one of the first here which was located on the property before the street was extended.

Hope Cemetery's specimen is believed to be nearly a half century old. Webb Mulford of S. Lincoln Ave., landscape architect, has several small ones in his garden.

An evergreen shrub of rather slow growth, the boxwood has shining small foliage which is frequently used in making Christmas wreaths.

Boxwood is native to East Asia, North Africa and Southern Europe and also occurs to a lesser extent in West India and Central America. In European gardens it is used for high hedges and topiary work.

As an ornamental plant the true dwarf English boxwood is used extensively in southern gardens of the United States and is the pride of the gardener. It has an inconspicuous blossom as has the common boxwood tree. Both have a pungent aroma.

Most of boxwood's troubles are said to be man-made. While the shrub is a shade-loving plant, it will also do well in full sunlight.

The American elm at Dr. C. J. Lehwald's home, S. Lincoln Ave., is reputed to be the second largest in the state. The Rathborn elm, near Marietta, has been called the largest in the world.

Among other large elms here is the one at the corner of Ohio Ave. and Franklin St. and another at the Mulford home.

Three high tulip trees (yellow poplar) are at the homes of F. J. Mullins, Mr. Mulford and Mrs. William Dunn, all on S. Lincoln Ave. The tulip tree received its name from the yellow color of its heartwood and its attractive tulip-like flowers. It is one of the largest and most valuable hardwood trees of the United States.

If you are interested in sycamore trees, there is a mammoth one down near the covered bridge at Teegarden. The sycamore, also known as buttonwood, is more abundant and reaches its largest size along streams and in bottomlands. A rapidly growing tree, in maturity it occasionally attains a height of 140 to 170 feet and a diameter of 10 to 11 feet.

Salem Women Golfers Play In Youngstown

Despite the exceeding hot day, 21 members of the Salem Women's Golf Association enjoyed golf and lunch Tuesday at Tippecanoe Country Club, near Youngstown.

Prizes in the golf games which started at 8:30 went to two members of the Salem delegation. Miss Josephine Bergant, who lives in Lisbon but is a member of the Salem Club, won first prize for low net in the first flight with a score of 79 for 18 holes. In the third flight Mrs. F. W. Hone won the second low net game with a score of 80 for 18 holes.

More than 200 women from seven clubs in the area participated in the day's activities. Salem women are signed up to travel to East Liverpool Country Club for competition Wednesday, June 25.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Royden Piper and son, Jeffrey, of Chester, Pa., left Sunday for Blairsville, Pa. to visit his parents. Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Piper, Mr. Piper, who preached Sunday in the Salem Presbyterian pulpit, is a ministerial student at Crozer Theological seminary. They were visiting here with Mrs. Piper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Vincent of E. Third St.

Indians Lose 4-3 Decision; Garcia Encounters Nats Tonight

Tribe Playing Better On Road

Frank Shea Twirling For Senators Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, faring worse at home than on the road, try to snap a four-game losing streak tonight by sending Mike Garcia to the mound against Frank Shea of the Washington Senators.

Garcia, with a 1-0 record against the Senators, is seeking victory No. 10 against three losses. Shea (3-2) shut out the Tribe 2-0 his last appearance here.

Washington's 4-3 victory in the opener of the three-game series Tuesday night gave Cleveland a 12-12 record on home games. On the road the Indians won 20, lost 14, 14.

The Indians lost the hard way. They got more hits, more walks and more men on third base. But they left 12 men stranded, compared to five for the Senators.

Cleveland's best chance for a rally came in the eighth inning. Jim Hegan singled and winner Bob Porterfield, nicked for nine hits, walked loser Bob Feller, who gave up nine.

Sandy Consuegra took over for Porterfield at this point and Harry Simpson bunted safely along the third base line, filling the bases. Then Ray Boone fled out and Al Rosen hit into a double play.

The Senators scored a run in the first inning on a single by Earl Rapp, a double by Jackie Jensen and a fly by Mickey Vernon. The Indians went ahead 2-1 in the same frame on a walk, singles by Boone and Rosen and an infield out.

Washington went ahead in the third with two runs on Rapp's double and singles by Jensen and Pete Runnels. The Senators clinched the game in the fifth with run No. 4 on singles by Rapp and Vernon.

Singles by Boone, Larry Doby and Dale Mitchell gave Cleveland its final tally in the seventh.

Qualifying For PGA Open Starts Today

LOUISVILLE (AP)—The tournament of upsets, the PGA Championship, gets under way today, and one of the safest bets in golf is that a lot of golfers who have been grabbing the headlines will be out of it by Saturday night.

And Saturday is only the halfway point in the week-long grind, consisting of two 18-hole qualifying rounds and five rounds of match play.

Most of the big names of the tournament circuit are in the field, although they had to change the rules to invite Open champion Julius Boros.

But primarily the tournament is the private party of the rank and file of the Professional Golfers Association—the guys who stay at home teaching golf instead of following the more glamorous tournament trail.

While players like Boros, defending champion Sam Snead, hot-and-cold Lloyd Mangrum, Porky Oliver and Cary Middlecoff draw most of the attraction, the field is loaded with little-known players who can shoot a round or two of great golf.

And one round is all that's needed to eliminate a favorite on the first day of match play. After the 36 holes of qualifying, the 64 survivors go into two 18-hole rounds of "sudden death" match play on Friday. From there on the matches are over the more conclusive 36-hole distance. But often that's too late for the stars.

Take the 1947 PGA Championship for example. That year Ben Hogan, Bobby Locke, Johnny Bulla, Dick Metz, Tony Penna, Johnny Revolta and Gene Sarazen all landed in one quarter of the match play draw. By nightfall on Friday Sarazen and Metz were the only ones of that group left.

Three years later, Snead, who had won his second PGA title in 1949, lost out to Eddie Burke in the second round and the final was between Chandler Harper, a part-time touring pro from Virginia, and Henry Williams Jr., a Pennsylvania stay-at-home.

Brown, Indians Sign Same Player

CLEVELAND (AP)—A large young man named Bert Rechichar, who can catch either a fly or a punt, today is an employee of two Cleveland teams — the Indians and the Browns.

The Indians will have him catching flies for their Reading, Pa., club in the Class A Eastern League. That is not too far from his home in Belle Vernon, same state.

And the Tribe hopes he will hit a long ball, as he is supposed to do. He bats right handed and plays the outfield.

Then in late July, shortly after his 22nd birthday, Rechichar will stop being a baseball player and will report for the annual game between the College All-Stars and the pro football champions, the Los Angeles Rams. The game is in Chicago, July 27.

He was captain last year of Tennessee's gridiron team, which ranked first in the nation among sports writers polled by The Associated Press.

After the All-Star game, Rechichar will be a major league professional football player with the Browns.

The Indians announced the signing of the dual purpose athlete today.

Blue Man Scores Yankee Handicap Win

BOSTON (AP)—Blue Man — the White Oaks stable's strapping sophomore star — was a notch closer to three-year-old honor today after staging one of his favorite late rushes to win the $50,000 added Yankee Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

The Blue Swords colt followed the pattern of his Preakness victory while boosting his 1952 earnings to $220,285 with the winner's $38,950 share of Tuesday's Suffolk Downs.

After breaking last in the six-horse field of three-year-olds, Blue Man came on to score by two and one half lengths over Isadore Bieber's King Jolie in the mile and a quarter test — New England's richest stake.

Eddie Siravo's New England champion Royal Marvel was third. Cain Hoy stable's early pace-setter Armageddon fourth, King Ranch's Risque Rouge fifth and E. P. Rodriguez' Academy Award last.

DEFEATS MALVERN 3-1

The Hanoverton-Kensington team defeated Malvern 3-1 Sunday in a Little League game. Any group interested in games Sunday afternoons and evenings or Monday evenings with the Hanoverton-Kensington team are asked to contact Daniel Furey of Hanoverton.

The most games won in a single season by a Cincinnati Red pitcher is 27. Adolf Luque turned the trick in 1923 and Bucky Walters in 1939. Brautigam announced today.

Chicago Sweeps Doubleheader From Athletics; Yankees, Boston, Indians Drop Single Contests

By JOE REICHLER
AP Sports Writer

Was poker-faced Paul Richards talking with tongue in cheek the other day when he praised the New York Yankees to the skies and moaned, "How canat 'em?"

Those who know the clever Chicago pilot believe he was trying to lull the world champions into a false sense of security and at the same time present a challenge to his own White Sox.

In any event, the Windy City club took the bait. From a listless bunch of second divisioners, Chicago has become the "Go-Go Sox" of the early 1951 campaign. Giving every evidence that they have penitent designs of their own, the White Sox last night swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Athletics, 13-1 and 2-1, to roll up their eighth and ninth wins in their last 11 games.

They're now within a half game of the faltering Cleveland Indians and three games behind the front-running Yankees. Chicago picked up ground on all the leaders as Detroit nipped the Yankees, 7-6, the St. Louis Browns beat Boston's Red Sox, 3-1, and Washington whipped the Indians, 4-3.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to four games, walloping the Chicago Cubs, 9-1, as Pittsburgh upset the second-place New York Giants, 6-2. Boston moved into a sixth place tie with Philadelphia, crushing Cincinnati, 5-1, while the Phils were held to a split in their doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals. After Curt Simmons had pitched the Phils to a 2-1 triumph in the opener, Al Brazle and Ed Yuhus teamed up to shut them out, 4-0, in the nightcap.

Lefty Billy Pierce and right-hander Marvin Grissom turned in fine performances for the White Sox. Pierce hurled a six-hitter for his seventh win and Grissom gave up seven hits for his fourth triumph. Eddie Robinson and Minnie Minoso were the big guns as Chicago ripped off 25 hits in the twin bill.

It took the Tigers 11 innings to overcome the Yankees. The winning run resulted when Jim McDonald, fourth Yankee hurler, hit Bill Swift with a pitched ball with the bases loaded and one out. Don Lenhardt, who had singled, advanced to third on a double by Vic Wertz and an intentional pass to Walt Dropo, crossed the plate with the winning run.

Detroit had taken a 6-1 lead on a two-run homer by Wertz and a grand slammer by Pat Mullin off starter Tom Morgan, but the Yankees battled back and finally tied the game on Mickey Mantle's eighth-inning homer. Fred Hutchinson, third Tiger pitcher, received credit for the win.

Earl Rapp and Jackie Jensen collected five hits between them and scored all the runs in Washington's 4-3 win over the Indians. Held hitless for five innings, the Browns erupted for three hits and as many runs to hand rookie Dick Brodowski his first defeat.

Preacher Roe turned in his first complete game since May 18 as the Dodgers handed the Cubs their third straight defeat. Roe yielded four hits, two to Eddie Miksis, whose homer prevented a shutout.

Gus Bell hit a grand slam homer in the seventh to snap a 2-2 tie and give Pittsburgh the win over the Giants.

Vern Bickford yielded seven hits in pitching the Braves to their victory over the Reds.

Pinch hitter Bill Nicholson singled in the run that gave Simmons his fifth victory against two defeats as the southpaw held the Cards to five hits. Nicholson's safety, a 30-foot roller down the third base line with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth, scored Ralph Caballero from third to snap a 1-1 tie.

Out-Of-Bounds Rule Creates Mental Hazard For Club Player

By JACKIE BURKE
Twelfth Of A Series

A mental hazard is fear, nothing more or less.

A player is conscious of a mental hazard before he makes the shot. This causes him to think of the hazard instead of the target, and thoughts have wings.

The out-of-bounds rule restored this year constitutes a mental hazard to many average players. The new rule penalizes the player stroke and distance, making it three off the tee instead of two.

Even though many duffers disregard the rule, they know the regulation is there, and it causes them to worry.

Many club players are complaining about the restoration of this rule.

They should be asked this question, "Would you let me drop out of an unplayable lie or water hazard for nothing?"

The answer would be "No." Then they no doubt would agree that a player should be penalized for making what in theory is the worst error possible on a golf course—driving out of bounds.

A water hazard in front of the tee can constitute a mental hazard to a duffer. He will concentrate on the lake and hit the ball into it. The accomplished shot-makers will never be in the water. He knows he can reach the fairway, so completely eliminates the lake from his thoughts.

Players erect mental hazards around certain holes and clubs.

HOW MANY TIMES have you heard a golfer say, "I hate that No. 4 hole. I just can't get to the green," or something to that effect? That player is building a first-class mental hazard for himself.

Say a player has taken an eight on a certain hole. That is likely to leave a bit of apprehensiveness, and he's liable not to play the hole well in the future.

The golfer who says, "I'm not playing my No. 5 iron well," is feeding a Grade A mental hazard.

Even the greats suffer from mental hazards, but they do something about them.

NOT STUMPED —Playing from behind a tree does not create a mental hazard for shot-makers like Sam Snead.

GENE SARAZEN recalls the PGA Championship of 1933 at Wauwatosa, Wis. The winner of them all wasn't playing well, so he eliminated from his bag all the clubs he wasn't using satisfactorily, leaving only five or six irons.

Gene won the championship with his skeletonized equipment. That's one way to beat mental hazards.

By far the best way, however, is to practice and cultivate your game to the point where you can walk up to almost any shot with confidence in your club and ability to put the ball where you want it.

The player free of a mental hazard has absolutely nothing on his mind but the target.

NEXT: Relaxation.

Ohio's High School Football Greats Select Future Colleges

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Ohio's top-bracket high school football talent —the kids chosen on the first three platforms of the Associated Press 1951 All-Ohio team—head for colleges all over the country next fall.

In the annual talent search through the "happy hunting grounds" of grid coaches, Ohio State fared well. The Bucks picked up nine of the top 66 youngsters, and four others are considering Ohio State along with some other school.

Only 42 of the 66 stars have definitely made up their minds on where they'll tote their collegiate pigskins. Of the other 24, one has dropped from school, seven are juniors, seven are wavering between this school and that, and nine just haven't made a decision of any kind.

Two dozen boys—or more than half those who have decided—will go outside the Buckeye borders. Four are headed for Kentucky, three to Notre Dame, two each to Cornell, West Point and Wisconsin, and "singletons" to Houston, Pittsburgh, Northwestern, West Virginia, Michigan, Harvard, Miami (Fla.), Illinois, Florida, Tampa and Michigan State.

Outside of Ohio State, only Miami and Dayton of the Ohio colleges were able to attract more than one of the All-Ohioes. The Redskins and the Flyers each picked up a pair, while lone stars chose Cincinnati, Xavier, Ballwin-Walace, Central State and Toledo.

Schools still under consideration by the undecided players are Michigan State, three, and Pittsburgh, Wisconsin, Illinois, Cincinnati, Miami, Tennessee, Purdue and Detroit, one each.

Ohio State is getting five first stringers, and two off the second and third teams. The first stringers: end Frank Guzik of Cleveland Rhodes, tackles Bob Whetstone of Barborton and Con Roush of Dayton Fairmont, center Ken Vargo of Martins Ferry, and halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy of Columbus Central. Second stringers: guard Rich Ebenshade of Mansfield and halfback Jerry Harkrader of Middletown. Third stringer: Tackle Roland Stewart of Ashland, and fullback Bud Bond of Akron Garfield.

First team halfback John (Big Thunder) Lewis of Fremont Ross is wavering between Michigan State, Detroit and Ohio State, but may wind up at Detroit with Jerome (Little Thunder) Surratt, his Fremont teammate.

Dave Rogers of Warren, voted the state's No. 1 star—Lewis was No. 2—will take his fullback talents to either Illinois or Ohio State. First string guard Calvin Jones of Steubenville is wavering between Ohio State and Michigan State. End Frank Gilliam, third string All-Ohio end also from Steubenville, has his eye on both Pittsburgh and Ohio State.

Bliss, Sears Win Softball Tilts

Bliss of the Class AA League and Sears of the Class A Loop scored victories last night in softball contests at Kelley Park.

Bliss tallied a 6-2 win over Butler Grange while Sears rapped up an 11-8 victory over Strouss.

Dick Jackson hurled the Bliss men to their triumph with a three-hit performance over the Grangers.

Bliss pounded out seven bingles off Butler's Glen Mercer, scoring six markers.

Bob Scullion led the Bliss batters with a triple and single in three trips to the plate.

Sears managed only three hits in their 11-8 win over Strouss but passed balls, errors, etc., allowed them to score their runs. Meanwhile, Strouss got six bingles from the offerings of Don Fife and Don Abrams but the latter kept the hits well scattered.

Born in Salem Sept. 28, 1865, she was the daughter of Abram and Esther Baum Hailey. Her husband, Ray Pattison, died in 1937. She had lived most of her life in Salem, except for a few years in St. Petersburg, Fla.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Josephine Kleinkurt of Salem, with whom she made her home, and a brother, Ralph Hailey of Tampa, Fla.

Swedes

"will not convince any Swedes. The lies are too obvious, the false accusations too flagrant."

The Socialist Morgon Tidningen, mouthpiece of the government, said the Russian note would be rejected at once.

"We have the right and duty to reject every attempt to deprive the country of an apology owed it for a brutal assault on a harmless rescue party which has not violated anybody's border but kept the international airspace," Morgon Tidningen declared.

The incident infuriated the neutrality-loving Swedes. Thousands of jeering demonstrators, some throwing stones and fire-crackers, lined up in front of the Russian Embassy here the last two nights.

Prime Minister Tage Erlander protested the shooting to the Russian ambassador in strong language Monday. The government ordered its naval and air force units to keep up the search for the plane missing since Friday and to shoot back at any further Soviet attacks.

A special session of the government also decided to tighten the nation's defense against air attacks but no details were disclosed.

VIDALIA, Ga. (AP)—A 1,500-pound Hereford bull stopped a crack freight train cold in an encounter near here Tuesday.

The diesel-powered locomotive and eight cars of the Georgia & Florida Railroad freighter, the Blue Goose, piled matchwood style across the tracks after hitting the bull head-on.

Disposal

ering the equipment they had to work with.

The major objection to the system was the final disposition of the garbage, which consists now of dumping it at dumps outside the city or feeding it to pigs.

Ed Weingart, spokesman for a group of Salem Township residents who attended the meeting, asked Council what action could be taken to prevent the dumping of refuse and garbage near his home.

He said that a local collector maintained a pig sty in that area and dumped his garbage there as feed for the pigs. The result, he said, was a terrible stench, pollution of the water streams in that area and general unsanitary conditions.

City Health Officer Elmer Kesselmire told the group that they should all their tests to the county health commissioner in order to get some action. He explained that the city had no control over the disposal of garbage outside of the corporation limits.

Return Of Murder Suspect Is Delayed

LISBON—Sheriff Howard J. Clark said Sylvester M. Harr, 21, indicted by the April grand jury on a second-degree murder charge, will not be returned from Blair County, Pa., today as scheduled.

His return has been delayed because the county judge there is away and must sign the extradition papers. Blair County officials said they will notify local authorities when the former Lisbon cab driver is ready to be returned.

Harr, who admitted beating to death Mike Zlater, 70-year-old Center Township farmer, last Jan. 14, has been confined in the county jail at Hollidaysburg, Pa., since January for a robbery there.

Rails Boost Stock Prices Up Slightly

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads boosted the stock market a little higher today.

Steels helped out in the upturn, and there were a few other bright spots in the list.

Gains ran from fractions to between one and two points with most of the best in the railroads. Losses were mostly fractional with only a few issues losing more than a point.

Radio-television issues were better on several industry forecasts of better TV business in the offing.

Higher were Bethlehem Steel, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Goodyear, Kennecott Copper, Zenith Radio, Philco, International Telephone, and Paramount Pictures.
